

Cady Noland's Ultra-Mysterious L.A. Show, an Art Space in a Snake Enclosure, and More Juicy Art World Gossip

Plus, a scammer is posing as advisor Todd Levin, and the Art Production Fund gala took over the Grill.

Cady Noland, Oozewald (1989) installed at the Punta della Dogana in Italy in 2009. Photo by Eric Vandeville/Gamma-Rapho via Getty Images

by Annie Armstrong • March 15, 2024

Every week, Artnet News brings you Wet Paint, a gossip column of original scoops. If you have a tip, email Annie Armstrong at aarmstrong@artnet.com.

artnet

Over 17 million

WE HEAR

DAVID ZWIRNER
GALLERY PRIVATE TOUR

---

$500 Starting Bid

Via a tipster.

The going rate for a private tour of David Zwirner is a cool $500, or at least that was the starting bid for one at a recent charity auction for Grace Church School... A new hat has been thrown into the Henry Street ring: gallery David Peter Francis officially opened its doors this week with a group show titled “Butterflies” that includes a harrowing Peter Hujar photograph that can’t be missed, titled Cow at Night... Beware! A scammer is posing as art advisor Todd Levin and asking clients to acquire NFTs of their artworks for $2,500... It seems that designer JW Anderson is a big fan of Albert York—did anyone else notice that paintings by the late landscape painter hung at the Loewe Winter runway show in Paris earlier this month ... Sushi Noz, the restaurant owned by collector John Marquez, has come under fire for allegedly giving women smaller portions than male patrons...